

FRIDAY, APRIL 5, 1745.

of the Grand Vizier in relation to the Grand Signior's Mediation.

OD having created the World, and all that is therein, at last created Man, in order to put the last Hand to this his wonderful Work, as being him for whom all the rest was design'd; giving him the Sovereignty thereof, and endowing him, at the same time, with such bodily Abilities, and with such Talents of the Mind, as fitted him for an absolute Dominion over Land and Sea.

Man, in order to procure Felicity to human Life, Man himself, to Arts and to Employments; and as required different Instruments in different Places, and a great Diversity of Employments in several Countries. Those who would not submit to the common Business of Life, were, from time, adverted of their Duty; and in case of continued Refractory, Recourse was had to the power to oblige them thereto.

Reasoning took Place when the same Mankind, in different Provinces; and the same Remedy was applied to their Disorders. But in such Cases, when they begin to grow better, it is but just to think of Peace, as the sole Source of human Happiness; and when once this is undertaken with good Success, the great Author of Harmony, and Giver of Peace, has recourse to them for the Maintenance of their Rights; yet how just soever may be in their Commencement, they cannot, by Shadow of Justice, be long continued; because the Consequences that attend them, are worse than the Evils they were meant to take away; since they are Effusion of Blood, and infect the Air, so communicates Diseases to Man and Beast.

Princes hoped, for these Reasons, that the Princes of the World would have put an end to the War, and prevent such Calamities; but being informed by the Ambassadors, Envoys, Residents, and Ministers, that they are about to take the Field with very numerous Armies this Campaign, where nothing can be expected but black Death, it has been thought proper to represent to the Ministers at the Court of the most Gracious, invincible, most Potent Emperor, the Shadow on Earth, and the Patron of the Grand Vizier,

This most occasion a vast Effusion of human Blood, and must expose a Multitude of innocent Families to Ruin and Destruction.

That it must give a Sanction to the Breach of the Law of Nature, by attributing to Force what ought to belong to Right; and thereby confound Order, Industry, and Arts.

That it must prove the Cause of interrupting the Progress of the human Species in general.

That the Sublime Highness having a tender Sense of the Unity, which is natural to all great Minds, has thought it his Duty to inform the respective Powers at War of this most beneficent and noble Design, in the Sight of God and Men, of his Highness, in order to know their Sentiments thereon; because this seems extremely necessary to the bringing his kind Intentions to Perfection; and with hath also transmitted the Grand Signior's Letter to confirm these Representations, &c.

His Right Reverend the Bishop of CLOYNE.

ON the Foundation of some Hints I took from the 29th and 49th Sections of your Siris, I attempted a Solution of Myrrh, by a low, and considering the Affinity, and Properties, that are in Tar, and in Myrrh, I was of Opinion, that, as all Homogeneous Bodies attract strongly than those of different Classes, so, possibly the native vegetable Salt, or acid Spirit of Tar, when gently fermented, might invite out the like Principle from Myrrh.

Accordingly I put a Drachm of coarse Myrrh, without any Delicacy of Choice, into half a Pint of the Tar Water, and set it in a Pint Bottle, in a Degree of the Heat of my Fire, equal to that of a hot Sun: In two or three Days I obtained so perfect a Solution, that, upon filtering, I found no other Residuum than such as is apt to stick to gummy Bodies.

Of this Infusion I mix about half an Ounce in each half Pint of Tar Water, which I daily drink; and take them, so mixed, with good Success. It makes the Tar Water much more pleasant, giving it an agreeable sub-acid-bitter Taste.

The second Process I used, after having spent my first Preparation, was very inaccurate; for I threw in an indeterminate Quantity (but as near as I can guess) four Drachms of fine pick'd Myrrh to a Pint of Tar Water. Upon filtering off this Infusion, I had Cause to think the Tar Water was more than saturated with Myrrh, because, among the Residuum, I found a Kind of Stacte, or fine, transparent, liquid Myrrh, of the Consistency of the best Turpentine; which, however, might perhaps have yielded to a longer Infusion.

To You, my Lord, we owe the Tar Water; and to You, how nearly had we owed the Solution of Myrrh? Since you furnished the only known aqueous Menstruum that will dissolve, and render it fit for internal Use. As your Lordship suggested the First Hint, so I know no Person so capable of improving, and so willing to apply this Discovery (if it be one) to the Good of Mankind, as your Lordship. To You, therefore, I address it, with all its Virtues, all its Honours. For my Part, I have not Skill enough in any Branch of Medical Knowledge, to assure me, whether there be any Thing new or valuable in this Experiment of mine; only I conjecture, that, at least, it must be a good Vulnerary Water. But were the Secret as rich as the Treasures of Loreto, both my Fortunes, and my Love to Mankind, forbid me to make any private Advantage of it; therefore I freely give it to the Publick under your Lordship's Patronage. I am, with great Duty and Esteem,

Your Lordship's most obedient,

humble Servant,

Philanthropus.
